As a result of our conversation Thursday, this is the way I have it broken down. If I am correct, this may be of some use to you.

1. It would be practicable to compile a list of research projects in the field of psychological intelligence (narrowly defined) which have been produced in the past on Government contract.

2. It would not be practicable to compile a similar list of projects produced other than on Government contract.

3. It would not be practicable to compile a list of projects produced in the past in the whole social science field, whether limited to Government contract projects or not.

4. It would be possible to make up a periodic list of all social science projects (including psychological intelligence projects) being produced under contract with the Government. It might be necessary or desirable to exclude economic projects or to list them separately.

5. It would be possible to compile a periodic list of psychological intelligence projects (narrowly defined) being produced whether on contract or not.

Notes:

a. There is an overlap between No. 4 and No. 5 which may be undesirable.

b. Certain delays are to be expected especially for information on non-contract projects.

c. There may be some difficulty or incompleteness in RAND's reports.

d. Contracted projects would include the work of ORO, ONR, HRRI, RAND, ERS, and probably the Cambridge Center.

e. Arrangements with RDB and the military research offices will be worked out by ERS.
